

LL.M. International Business Law SINGAPORE

This program deals mainly with practical case studies and certain key subjects with a pluridisciplinary approach. It prepares students and professionals for operations such as large acquisitions or market transactions, cross border mergers, complex financing, restructuring, LBOs, financial engineering and industrial projects. These are elaborate operations, offering difficulties that often lead to innovative solution seeking. Used as educational material, they allow the legal practitioners to study and analyze the legal, financial or accounting issues they provide. Thus, contracts, guarantees, financing and international trade litigation, among other basic subjects, are being studied from various angles.

DEAN OF SINGAPORE CAMPUS

"Welcome to Sorbonne-Assas International Law School – Singapore. The goal of Sorbonne-Assas International Law School – Singapore is to promote the best practices in the field of international business law. Its objective is to compete with major European and International Law schools by giving access to a joint training program in law and management, taught by professors from Paris II Panthéon-Assas University, who publish and teach in cutting-edge fields, and by experienced lawyers and practitioners coming from the best international law firms and companies in Asia. Sorbonne Assas International Law School LL.M. students thus gain an in-depth understanding of some of the most important and rapidly-changing fields of law and a nuanced understanding of Europe and U.S. legal system and culture. Our students can take advantage of a broad-based curriculum that includes courses and programs in international law, international contracts, intellectual property, international arbitration, international trade, international finance, environment law, tax law, etc. Finally, Sorbonne Assas International Law School offers two short-programs, in March and July, focused on international contracts and financing law, as well as executive seminars, standard or on-demand, to contribute to the improvement of lawyers' and in-house counsels' best practices."

Stéphane Braconnier, Dean of Sorbonne-Assas International Law School – Singapore

Anne-Victoire DE MIRMAN (2017/18)
Now completing her last year in French Bar School (Paris)

"The LL.M. combines theoretical courses taught by renowned professors, with seminars by enthralling professionals practising in Asia. This dual approach covering a wide spectrum of legal and business issues enabled me to greatly improve my knowledge in International Business Law, and to start a legal career with useful, complementary and strong skills. Moreover, thanks to the LL.M. network, I had the opportunity to get a part-time internship, an amazing professional experience that gave me the chance to deeply understand the practical legal stakes of the prospering APAC market."

Galura WIRAYUDANTO (2017/18)
Now Industrial Relations Specialist at PT. MRT Jakarta

"I found both theoretical and practical full-scale exploration of the knowledge of international business law that I can implement for my future career in and outside of my country. Sorbonne-Assas LL.M. program brought the best lecturers on each background with extraordinary experience and indisputable module. The assignments provided by the professors truthfully stimulate and build bridges to think as a professional and expert in the scope of international business law."

Louis-Marie MORIN (2016/17)
Now Associate at Linklaters

"The LL.M. provides a comprehensive overview of the fundamental areas of international business law; and its both theoretical and practical approach is an efficient preparation for an international legal career. The comparative perspective of the course, putting a particular emphasis on the Asian legal systems, has allowed me to gain special insight in various Asian countries' legal frameworks. In addition, the possibility to combine the LL.M. with a part-time job has given me the unique opportunity to have a practical legal experience in the highly dynamic market of Singapore."
